Insights:

- Total credit risk exposure stands at approximately 1.93M across cash balances and trade receivables
- Trade receivables increased significantly from 405k in 2024 to 658k in 2025, indicating higher customer outstanding balances and possible collection delays
- Cash and bank balance exposure decreased from 533k in 2024 to 338k in 2025, which may indicate reduce liquidity reserves
- Higher receivables and lower cash can create cash flow pressure for the business

Recommendation:

- Company should improve customer payment collection and monitor cash flow more carefully
